11 Still being charged Student Activity Fee and CUNY Technology Fee for Summer?

I just checked the charges due for my summer course and both are included. How is this at all ethical, being that everything is online per the Chancellor's order?

Access to school computers, printing, library use, etc.

Look under "Undergraduate Fees"

They are discounted. You still use blackboard, right?

$79 is discounted? You're shitting me. Also it shouldn't be discounted but flat out WAIVED, the entire thing is online, not just a part of the session. And yes I use bb, why?

Ok, so that's the Technology Fee. What about the Student Activity fee?

Activity FeesFunds paid by each student to support student clubs, student government, various campus services, and a variety of student activities. These range from around $60 to $180.00 per semester for a full-time student. A part-time student pays less.

in other words, if you dont participate in any of these, its a total rip off.

I wholly agree, particularly as someone who works full time and therefore has no time to participate in them anyway. However, the fact that they are being charged for a semester when there will be no campus services or student activities for anyone, is beyond the pale. And the simple fact is the entirety of tuition should be substantially discounted--why am I paying the same exact rate to essentially teach myself through a hodgepodge of absolutely half assed "distance learning" classes? I would apply to DeVry instead.
